Fumble Recovered 10-32; Lost Ball 33-39

ALABAMA, 1992 ... Record 13-0-0 ... Alabama celebrated its football centennial with a consensus national championship. Gene Stallings, one of Bear Bryant's famous "Junction Boys" and a former Bryant assistant, was now in command in Tuscaloosa. Sophomore Jay Barker took over at QB to start the season and would end his career as the winningest signal-caller in school history. But it was the defense that separated this team from the rest of the pack. Antonio Langham and George Teague both picked off six passes. Langham and defensive lineman John Copeland and Eric Curry were All-Americans. The Tide tamed Auburn in the Iron Bowl, disposed of Florida in the first-ever SEC Championship Game, and handed the Miami Hurricanes their heads on a platter in the Sugar Bowl. After rolling to a 13-6 halftime lead, the Tide scored two third-quarter TDs in 16 seconds, the second on a 31-yard interception return by Teague. Bama kept Heisman Trophy-winning QB Gino Toretta on his heels all night, and
